PRESIDENT WINS 468 ELECTORAL VOTES AS WILLKIE SETS RECORD IN DEFEAT

20,964,675 Endorsement Given Republican
Nominee Is Heaviest Poll Ever Made By A Losing Candidate In Nation's History

NEW YORK, (UP)—President Roosevelt today leads the United States and the western hemisphere into four years in which war or peace, prosperity or depression will be in the balance.

There was the inevitable speculation whether President Roosevelt would invite Willkie to share some government responsibility, perhaps relating to national defense. He called on Landon for various patriotic services since 1936.

Acclaimed personally and as an epochal political figure because of his re-election to an unprecedented third term, Mr. Roosevelt begins his new term with his majorities in both houses of Congress strengthened by the election returns.

The margin of third term triumph still is growing in the second day after the election. Mr. Roosevelt polled 25,226,839 popular votes and 468 in the electoral college. The bare majority sufficient to elect is 266. Wendell L. Willkie polled 20,964,675, the largest vote ever cast for a losing candidate. Only Herbert Hoover in 1928 and Mr. Roosevelt in his three successful presidential attempts ever topped the 20,000,000 figure. But Mr. Willkie won only 63 electoral votes. The division of the electorate was approximately 55 per cent for Mr. Roosevelt and 45 per cent for Willkie.

State Totals

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—California political leaders buried the hatchet as former president Herbert Hoover made a plea for national unity under the Roosevelt administration. With returns still trickling in from outlying precincts, it appeared that only eight of the state's 58 counties cast a favorable vote for Republican Wendell Willkie. These were Alpine, Del Norte, Lake, Mono, Orange, Riverside, Santa Cruz and Sonoma. Returns from 13,159 precincts of the state's 13,692 gave Roosevelt, 1,794,121; Willkie, 1,287,895; Babson, 11,663; Browder, 9,955; and Thomas 11,997.

Officer Charles Flick, of the El Dorado County squad of the state Highway Patrol, resigned effective October 31st and has announced his intention of entering business.

BALLOTING BREVITIES

Hail to The Chief!

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Roosevelt returned to the Capital today where he was acclaimed by cheering thousands that lined flag-bedecked Pennsylvania Avenue.

In honor of Mr. Roosevelt's sweeping third term victory, the district commissioners had declared a virtual half holiday and government workers, school children, tourists and others turned out to a total estimated at more than 200,000. They stood 20 deep in many places along the historic route of state parades to give Mr. Roosevelt a rousing welcome. A chilling west wind did not deter the crowds.

Babson, Statistician

WELLESLEY, Mass., (UP)—Roger W. Babson, noted economist and unsuccessful candidate for President of the United States on the prohibition ticket, today wired President Roosevelt as follows:

"Heartily congratulations. A defeated statistician, however, humbly reminds you that one per cent of the vote properly allocated would have elected Wendell Willkie. Therefore you will work for coalition both with Republicans and minority parties. Please keep well. Four great years are ahead."

Unity Aim

NEW YORK (UP)—Republican and Democratic and business and labor leaders joined in a patriotic drive for national unity today, casting aside the bitterness of the presidential election to aid the national defense program.

Pay Boost

NEW YORK, (UP)—Walter J. Black, president of a publishing house, announced today a 10 per cent pay increase for each of his 50 employees "because President Roosevelt was re-elected."

CONGRESSMAN, LEGISLATORS ARE ELECTED WITHOUT OPPOSITION

Three legislative officers were elected by voters of the county in the Tuesday election.

Congressman Englebright unopposed at the August primaries and had no opposition in the general election.

State Senator H. E. Dillinger won the Democratic and Republican nominations at the primaries and had no opposition in the general election.

Assemblyman A. G. Thurman likewise won both party nominations in the primaries and had no opposition.

Although it is often popularly reported that partisan candidates who capture both major party nominations are "elected at the primaries," County Clerk Arthur P. Koltetzke states this is not true as a matter of law.

Candidates for non-partisan offices who win with the necessary margins at the primaries may properly be said to be elected, but the law provides that partisan candidates must appear on the November ballot, irrespective of winning both nominations at the primaries.

Under certain circumstances, then, it is possible a "write-in" campaign might elect a candidate whose name was not on the ballot. Possible, but not probable.

Although no tabulation of the vote received by the Congressman, the state senator and the assemblyman was made, all received ample complimentary votes.

A declaration of their intention to wed was filed Tuesday with the county clerk by Leonard G. Payne and Marilyn Ann Rupley, both of Placerville.

"Sister Kay" the beautiful nurse at University College Hospital, in London, has been identified as the Duchess of Kent. She completed her 50-hour course and now is a qualified nursing auxiliary. On a recent visit to the hospital by the Duke, she was presented and courted like the other trainees.

ARMISTICE DAY IS OUTLINED

Fraternal Leader Will Be Speaker At Rites
On Monday Morning

Arrangements for a three-fold observance of Armistice Day on Monday, November 11, have been completed under the guidance of El Dorado Post No. 119, American Legion.

The twenty-second anniversary of the cessation of hostilities in the war of 1917-18 will be observed with special programs in the schools on Friday, the American Legion dance on Saturday evening, and the public parade and exercises on Monday morning.

Members of the American Legion will visit several of the schools of the county on Friday to address the pupils concerning Armistice Day.

The annual dance will be at the Shakespeare Club house on Saturday night.

Frank Irwin, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the parade and exercises on Monday morning, announces that District Attorney Henry S. Lyon, a member of the American Legion post and the Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, will be the speaker of the day.

The American Legion is anxious all civic and fraternal groups as well as school children participate in the parade, which will form at the War Veterans' Memorial Building on Main Street, to step off behind the high school band promptly at 10:30 o'clock.

It is important that the hour of starting the march be kept strictly. (Continued on Page 4)

REPUBLICANS GAIN 2 IN CONGRESS

Net Loss To New Deal
Is One; Ten Of Seventeen
Propositions Are Defeated

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The new California delegation to congress today consisted of 11 Democrats and nine Republicans, representing a loss of one by the Democrats and gain of two by the G.O.P.

The Republicans lost an opportunity to have 10 members when State Senator Ed Fletcher, San Diego Republican, conceded his defeat by Rep. Ed V. Izac.

The final outcome brought reelection to all incumbent congressmen except Haverner, of San Francisco, defeated by Republican Tom Rolph, and the late Tom Eaton of Long Beach, whose Republican seat was won by Ward Johnson over Democratic former Congressman Bryon F. Scott.

Balloting was close on several of the 17 propositions but nearly complete returns today confirmed the decisive defeat of the daylight savings initiative and a proposal to convene the legislature annually in (Continued on Page Three)

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey King
Lease Property From
Owner For Five Years

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey King have leased Twin Bridges Resort on the road to Lake Tahoe for five years from Mrs. N. L. Spenser, owner, and are now engaged in renovating and improving the property. Their plans are to keep the resort open all winter and to make it a headquarters for skiing parties.

The resort includes a grocery store, bar, lunch room and service station, all of which will be kept open.

"We already have a few accommodations for overnight visitors and it is our plan to arrange for more," Mr. King said. "In the main store building we have a large room upstairs, which will be fitted up with cots to care for the skiers who wish to bring sleeping bags.

Although there was only six inches of snow on the summit last Sunday, already there have been people seeking a chance to play in the snow, the resort manager said.

Mr. King operated the tavern at Strawberry during the summer season and Mrs. King assisted as a hostess.

Unofficial returns from all of the forty-four precincts of the county showed Thursday morning that in the election Tuesday, El Dorado County voted with a majority of the electors of the nation to make Franklin D. Roosevelt the first third-term President in history.

The President carried the county more than two to one, piling up a total of 3,919 votes as against 1,891 for Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican nominee.

The Willkie candidacy was endorsed in only three of the county voting precincts, Placerville No. 2, Limestone No. 27, and Gold Hill No. 32. President Roosevelt carried all others.

Unofficial returns indicate a total of 5,941 votes were cast at the polls. The county clerk's office reports a total of 421 absentee ballots, which will be added to this total and to the totals in the tabulation, to which reference is made for a detailed report on the presidential vote and the vote on some of the more important state propositions.

GREEKS ADMIT ADVANCE BY ITALIANS

Fascists Move Forward
Toward Janina Though
Halted On North Front

By UNITED PRESS
Greece and Italy battled to break a stalemate on the Balkan front today. Great Britain traded heavy air blows and, in the far East Japan hinted at a new move toward the South Pacific.

Conflicting reports of the war along the Greek and Albanian frontiers continued to come from Athens and Rome, but it appeared that there had been stiff fighting on both the north and western sectors without any important change in positions.

Athens dispatches said that 1,000 Italian war prisoners had arrived at Salonica, that Greek troops and artillery fire dominated the Italian base of Koritza in Albania and that all Italian troops had been driven from Greek soil in the northern (Koritza) front guarding the road to Florina and Salonica.

But while the Greeks seemed to be holding the advantage in their counter-offensive on the northern front, the Italians claimed (and Athens partly admitted) that the Fascist offensive was rolling forward on the western front toward the town of Janina. The Italian communiqué said that Fascist forces had crossed the river Kalamas, in Greece, and in cooperation with the airplanes had attacked along the road to Janina.

In the near east, Turkey was reported to have arrested 35 persons and broken up what appeared to be a big Axis spy ring.

In the far east the Japanese were threatening to take the offensive again toward the south.

The Japanese news agency, Domei, indicated that Tokyo was facing southward when it carried a dispatch from Hanoi saying that Japan was protesting against the activity of hostile elements in southern areas of French Indo-China. These hostile elements were described as Americans, Britons, Chinese and followers of the "Free France" movement.

The European war in the air continued at an intense pace. British bombers attacked objectives in Spandau a suburb of Berlin, and at many other points in Germany during the night. The Axis air fleets continued to pound at the British Isles, while German long-range guns on the channel coast fired heavily against the Dover area.

Soil District Work Outlined

Directors Now Ready To Receive Applications
For Project Approval

Directors of the Central El Dorado Soil Conservation District are now ready to accept applications from farmers within the district according to Roy Marks, president.

Assistance to farmers in carrying out their soil and water conservation activities falls in two categories. The district directors can render assistance in furnishing preliminary engineering and in farm planning. This work will be done by technicians of the Soil Conservation Service who have been assigned to the district.

In addition, if WPA cooperation can be obtained, the directors may be able to furnish labor in putting soil and water conservation plans into operation. If WPA labor can be obtained farmers will be expected to furnish the necessary materials, which usually run from 30 to 40 per cent of the cost of the job.

In order that the Directors may apply for WPA cooperation, they must have as many applications as possible, and interested farmers are urged to get their applications in at once.

Marks announced that work will be carried out on an efficient basis and the number of applications will determine in which district the work will start. As resources are limited, each farmer should expect to carry out a part of his own farm plan.

Cotton Champion

Outpicking 134 other contestants, Harold Mason, 15, of Senath, Mo., won the national cotton picking championship at Blytheville, Ark. He sacked 129 net pounds in two hours to win the title and $1,000.

COLOMA NOTES

A Coper of Sacramento, of the Great Dredge Company here was at Coloma the greater part of the week looking after business.

Mr. and Mrs. Ike Bingham of Camino spent Sunday with the Grout family helping to fittingly celebrate the 17th birthday of Miss Beverly Grout.

Mrs. Annie Jaeger and Miss Mamie Thomas were out from Placerville, spending the weekend with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lowe have returned from a trip to Washington, their old home state.

Mr. and Mrs. P. D. McCoy were in San Francisco on business Saturday.

Walter Preddy of San Francisco was a Coloma visitor several days.

Walter Hansen has been busy putting up a wire fence between the old Othick property and the Big Bend mining ground, for Mrs. Hattie Carpenter.

Elmer Neilson of Pollock Pines was a Coloma visitor Monday on his way home from the Rescue section where he had been called on account of a bad accident near the Mormon Hill mine where his father had delivered a load of lumber. While getting it off the truck the load shifted and fell pinning Mr. Neilson to the ground. He suffered many bad lacerations about his head and body, a broken leg and broken ribs. Dr. Babcock was called and took charge.

Sympathy is expressed for Mrs.

Lowrey's 6 year old nephew John Wilson whose eye was injured a few years ago while playing at school, and the sight destroyed and now the other eye has failed and the little boy is in a school for the blind in the bay region. The little boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson, formerly of Pilot Hill and his grandparents have the heartfelt sympathy of everyone, especially the young mother who as Miss Ethel Thomsen was a very happy and popular school teacher here just a few short years ago.

Roosevelt carried this place over two to one — Roosevelt 110, Willie 59.

The whole countryside slept better Tuesday night because about 5 p.m. as darkness was falling news came that Frank Wagner, 79 year old resident of the Lotus section all his life had been found. He had been missing since 3 p.m. Monday, last week looking after property interests here.

Mrs. Gladys Lowrey of Sacramento and small son visited the De Lory family Wednesday. Much where he spent Monday night is not known; a dozen neighbors and relatives had hunted all that night and at dawn Tuesday every able bodied man for miles around joined the searching party, but it was not until the dusk, when the quick ears of his little 12 year old granddaughter Irene Wagner, who was with one searching group, heard a faint call for help and the aged man was found entangled in a barbed wire fence where he had fallen and was unable to regain his feet. His clothing was quite damp from the rain and he was exhausted from his struggles to free himself, but otherwise was, or seemed all right, and was taken at once to the Placerville Sanatorium to recover from his harrowing experience.

Reasons for buying MAIL-WELL ENVELOPES

1. Deep Cut Shoulder Flaps—Shoulder flaps that allow room for more gumming surface which strengthens an envelope at its weakest point.
2. Wider Gumming—Gumming that does not taper off at the ends, gives added strength where most needed and assures that "they stick."
3. Adequate Sealing Surface—Higher back insures that the gum on the deep flap will not come in contact with the envelope's contents.
4. All folds scored—Scoring before folding doubles the resistance power of an envelope.
5. Deep Cut Seams—Seams that strengthen the brace which is formed by Mail-Well envelopes when they are sealed and ready for mailing.
6. When Sealed a Brace Is Formed—Sealing of Mail-Well envelopes complete the brace which is formed to resist the rough handling they receive in the mails.

These seven reasons above are sufficient to convince you that Mail-Well Envelopes are best suited to your needs, but we do not want you to decide just on our description of the envelopes for it is impossible to describe the "feel" of a Mail-Well Envelope or its quality appearance that lends so much dignity to the mail it carries. Let us show you samples so you can see for yourself. You will be under no obligation.

MAIL-WELL ENVELOPES COST NO MORE THAN ORDINARY ENVELOPES

"ROULETTE of LOVE" by MAY CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS

It had been a wonderful picnic, Lucinda Stanford enjoying every minute of it even though Edward Scott, the artist, persisted in proposing for the hundredth time. The party retreats to an old barn when a storm comes up. Someone puts a pall of water over the door intended for Bertie Sprigg, a sponger, but Lucinda gets soaked instead. While her clothes are drying, she wraps herself in a gunny-sack and, tired out, falls asleep in the hay. Later, the crowd goes off and leaves her, believing she has gone ahead in another car. Lucinda awakens at four o'clock the next morning and rushes from the barn terrified. Wealthy Carter Chalmers finds her by the roadside and takes her to his home. After a refreshing bath, and dressed in a pair of Carter's pajamas, Lucinda feels like Cinderella. Carter, greatly attracted, asks her if she could learn to like him. Her heart leaps, but she answers lightly, "That's a tall order. For all you know I may be engaged or even married."

CHAPTER III

"Engagements are old-fashioned. And I don't believe at your infantile age you'd be so silly as put your pretty little neck into a noose."

"Great heavens! How old do you think I am?"

"You look fifteen as you sit here. But by a stretch of the old imagination, you might be three years older than that."

"Silly! I'm twenty-one."

"So? And free and white?"

"Not very free. I work pretty hard, I tell you. This is a kind of a red-letter night for me, you know."

"Are you referring to your revels in the barn?" He moved nearer her on the bear-skin rug. "Or may I flatter myself that you're enjoying my company?"

Lucinda flushed to her ears, and was angry at herself for flushing. "I certainly feel at peace with all the world just now. This beautiful room—and the fire—and the cheery highball—and yet—I admit—the company!"

"Thanks for putting me last. I see I must work to make an impression."

"Please don't," she said nervously, with an uncertain little smile, for the nearness of this handsome young man was disturbing. "Sit back, like a nice boy, and tell me how it came that you were out so late this evening?"

"Oh, the usual Saturday night in town. Dinner with another fellow. And then a show. A dull show. Most shows are flops these days. And then on to the Mayfair Club. That's always interesting."

Lucinda sat up, her eyes shining. "You mean the Saturday night party in the Ritz where the actors and actresses and the movie people meet? And you have to be a member to get in? Oh, tell me about it. My sister and I have sometimes stood outside on Saturday nights just to get a glimpse of the stars. There are always people on the sidewalk then. Autograph hunters."

"But you aren't one of them?"

He seemed faintly surprised.

Lucinda said: "Please tell me about this fascinating night-club!"

The young man smiled at her eager face. Enthusiastic child! Could it be possible that anyone so pretty and alluring could be so unspoiled? Or was she spoofing him?

"It's held in the Crystal Room, and quite a pretty scene. There's the red-carpeted staircase going down, you know, with banks of flowers on either side. Offers a grand stage-entry for the actresses. They love it."

"Only actresses can go there?"

Her face fell.

"No. The social lights crowd in to stare at the theatrical crowd, and vice-versa. You can't be a member unless you're on the stage or screen. But you can usually get in on the acquaintance and pass of some actor chap, or if you're with an actress. As a matter of fact, the secretaries are very strict. It's almost necessary to get in with a member."

"And what do you do when you do get in?"

"The usual thing. Dancing. Grand music. Buffet supper."

She added: "And flirting with the stars, of course!" She forced her-could sneak a dress out of Bergman-Jay's for me one night. We're the same size. Bubbles models there. She's my sister."

"You have pretty feet, Lucinda," he said with apparent irrelevance. He looked down at them contemptuously. What about letting me supply the glass slippers?"

She laughed. Her laugh was like a freshet of delight, he thought. She curled one bare foot under her.

"Are you as charming as all that?"

"I couldn't help being charming to you—if you'd allow me."

She thought: "In my place Bubbles would leap at this chance. He's evidently got money to burn. But I'd hate for him to think, even for a minute, that I'm a gold-digger."

She said nervously: "I think I'd better go. Suppose anyone walked in? How on earth could I explain why I'm here?"

"Nonsense, Lucinda. Sit still, while I fix you another highball. Contrary to what you may think, I've seldom had the aesthetic pleasure of gazing at anything so beautiful, at this 'witching hour,' in this room."

Her gaze travelled to the delicately-wrought French nudes on the walls. "You don't seem so lonely."

"Pretty good, aren't they? I got them in that antique shop at the corner of the Rue de Grenelle the last time I was over in Paris. You know it?"

"I've been nowhere except Coney Island, more or less."

He grinned. Then he'll have to make it more. He added soda-water to the Scotch and brought it over to her. He sat down beside her on

TONY RUFFA, DUKE TACKLE WITH ONE OF THE "TRUEST TOES" IN AMERICA

Today's Sport Parade

By Henry McLemore
United Press Staff Correspondent

EN ROUTE TO TEXAS, (UP) — Lawson Little doesn't look much like a guinea pig, and neither does Jimmy Demaret, but that is just what they are going to double for when they start their 72-hole challenge match at Houston next Sunday.

Their challenge will not be so much a test of skill as it will be a demonstration from which much can be learned concerning the proper mental attitude with which to approach the game of golf. Using the course as a laboratory, and the National Open champion and one of his chief rivals as guinea pigs, it will be possible to determine whether a jutting jaw or joviality, grimness or grin, concentration or abandon makes for better golf.

No two more contrasting golf personalities ever hooked up in a match than Lawson Little and Jim Demaret. They are night and day, sunup and sundown, poison and antidote, itch and scratch, Pegler and Guest, and mole and stratoliner. You could search every sandtrap, water hazard, rough and 19th hole in the world without finding two other golfers who, once the first tee is reached, are such direct opposites as the Californian and the Texan.

Ever since he cut his first milk tooth (on a creak, I believe the story goes) Little has been a battler on the golf course. He wraps himself in an afghan of concentration, thrusts out his jaw, and goes to work. It's a grim business with him. He pays little or no attention to his opponent and less to his gallery. Even when he gets an opponent six or seven down he never relaxes but tries a little harder in the hope of getting him ten or eleven down. Not until the match is over does he return to normal and become what he likes to be—a laughing, pleasant companion.

Not so brother Demaret. He was born with a grin on his face and nothing he has ever encountered on a golf course has been able to erase it. To him a golf match, be it the final round in a major tournament, is just another junior prom, a night at the stock club, or the first two acts of a musical show. Nothing serious, mind you. If you win you win, if you lose you lose, that's Jimmy's motto. If you're on your stick you're on your stick, and if you aren't nothing is going to save you, so you might as well have a little fun out of the round.

Little plays his shots carefully. Demaret is casual almost to the point of carelessness. Which is the better approach? Right now it's hard to say, because both men have done better than all right. The stern, unyielding Little took two American and two British amateur titles and the American open and his method, and carefree Demaret, with his let's-have-a-little-fun-out-of-this-game attitude, is one of the finest golfers this country has ever produced and the past winter and spring was almost unbeatable.

Their match starting Sunday had ought to be a deciding affair. Personally I am going to adopt the winner's attitude. Right now my approach is a mixture of the two. Until I hit my first shot I am a bit like Demaret—happy, laughing and without a care. Then when I tee off, and see where the confounded, blasted, idiotic ball has gone to I get tougher than Little ever was. Come to think about it, I hate golf. Boy, my Rogue set!

New Style for Snipers

Two soldiers don new camouflage uniforms developed by army engineers after a study of designs used in Europe. The new uniforms, made to blend snipers into a background of trees, shrubbery or snow, was demonstrated at Fort Belvoir, Va., for the benefit of regular Army and National Guard officers.

Around The House

By ANN COMFORT

If you want to make muslin cuffs very stiff, add one teaspoon of Epsom salts to each bowl of starch and dissolve in the usual way in boiling water. Articles starched in this mixture will be stiffer.

Memos to myself for Thanksgiving Day:

1. To buy new decorations for the table. The Sophomore says that she will lose her appetite if she has to look at the same old gourds and corn stalks that have adorned the table for the last three years. Remember to buy some tall candles and fruit in season for the centerpiece.

2. To remind the Old Captain not to pull off his favorite gag about pumpkins and homely women being deprived of God's grace. He always does this when pumpkin pie is served and then, has to spend the rest of the time paying compliments to the women present to assure them that they are not in the pumpkin-homely class. To follow the suggestion in one of the women's magazines about dressing up one pumpkin pie with whipped cream and pineapple.

3. To think over which one of these two turkey dressings would be the most palatable to my guests.

Oyster Dressing

Three-fourths loaf bread not using crust; one half cup butter or chopped suet; one half teaspoon of pepper; one teaspoon salt; two well beaten eggs; one tablespoon powdered sage; one pint well drained oysters.

Mix in the order listed.

Sausage Dressing

One quart stale bread crumbs, 1 large onion fried in ¼ cup butter, ½ pound sausage meat; 1 slice of liverwurst, 2 eggs, salt, pepper to taste.

4. To think over whether I want to use the old or the new method roasting turkey.

Old Method

After turkey has been washed, dried, singed, seasoned inside with salt and pepper and stuffed with desired dressing, tie down legs and turn wings under. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Put in dripping pan with three cups water. Bake frequently with butter and pan water.

New Method

Follow first proceeding but put fowl in roasting pan breast down to brown. Cover pan, add 1 cup water, reduce heat, cook until tender. Put pieces of salt pork or bacon on the breast to insure juicy meat. Baste with mixture made with one half cup olive oil, 2 tablespoons melted butter, juice of one lemon and one half cup sherry.

5. To serve a light salad before meat course:

Avocado and Grapefruit Salad

Arrange wedges of canned grapefruit on lettuce on individual salad plates. Peel avocado, cut into balls with vegetable cutter, place in center of dish. Serve with French dressing or a richer dressing made from the mashed bits of avocado, mayonnaise and lemon juice.

6. To serve sweet potatoes a new way:

Sweet Potatoes on Pineapple

Six sweet potatoes boiled and mashed; one tablespoon sugar one-quarter cup melted butter; one-quarter cup sherry; one teaspoon salt; one quarter teaspoon nutmeg; one quarter cup cream; beat until fluffy, pile on eight pineapple discs; top with 16 marshmallows. Brown in oven.

7. To remember to buy cranberries several days before Thanksgiving, to make sauce or jelly and put it away to be ready to serve.

8. To prepare salted almonds a few days before Thanksgiving.

Salted Almonds

After almonds have been blanched in boiling water, place in pit with butter—one teaspoon to two cups. Put in hot oven, stir frequently to prevent scorching. When browned remove and add salt.

9. To remember that the object of Thanksgiving Day is to feast but not to stuff oneself. To give thanks for being an American in these perilous times and to remem-

the chairman announces. Proceeding down Main Street, the procession will halt opposite the bell tower and the assembled audience will gather on the parking lot at that site, where the exercises will be opened under the guidance of Mr. Irwin as chairman of the day, and of Paul R. Smith, American Legion Commandeer.

The program follows: Prayer by the post chaplain; Pledge of Allegiance, by the Sons of the Legion; selection, high school band; recitation, "In Flanders Fields," by James Ticksman, a member of the Senior Class at the high school; introduction of guests; roll call of departed comrades; selection by the band; address by the speaker of the day; benediction.

Precisely at the hour of eleven o'clock, as the fire bell on the plaza tower is tolled, the assemblage will observe a period of reverent silence in commemoration of the cessation of hostilities on the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, in 1918.

Soroptimists To Hold Costume Party Nov. 18

The regular Wednesday luncheon meeting of the Soroptimist Club, at Hotel Raffles, made plans for a costume party to be held November 18th at the home of Mrs. Rita May. The occasion will be the regular quarterly social event of the club, honoring the birthday anniversaries of its members.

ber to contribute my bit, to those less fortunate. To express thanks to those to whom I owe gratitude, to the doctor who has relieved me of pain, to the friends who have encouraged me, to those who have comforted me.

10. To make the Thanksgiving Day dinner something more than a weary duty, a paying off of a social debt or an opportunity to display my linen and china. To try honestly to give cheer and welcome to my guests in the old hospitable sense.
